Apex -- Premium Collection and Income Generation Strategy

Apex seeks to collect option premium on S&P 500 futures option spreads. This is sometimes referred to as an income generation strategy. Apex is designed to trade in bull, bear or flat markets, and is considered a nondirectional approach. Apex's trading manager Jim Henderson has been trading with Altavest since 2004, and he utilizes Altavest's proprietary ThetaTrader algorithm and his expertise to select appropriate trades. Risks within the option portfolio are mitigated by diversifying spreads across varying strike prices and expiration dates. No naked options are traded. Trading results will, over time, have little correlation to the S&P 500, therefore making Apex a viable component in a diversified investment portfolio. There are no management or incentive fees.
